Current MBA student at Wharton School of Business and CEO and Co-Founder of Pinky Promise, an early-stage reproductive healthcare start-up incubated at Wharton. Her work experience has spanned strategy consulting, public policy and operations. Divya has previously worked at the Bridgespan Group where she helped provide management consulting services to governments, non-profits and philanthropists, and the Delhi Commission for Women where she focused on making Delhi safer for women. Divya was promoted out-of-turn twice, in both her roles.
